

Court of Appeal: eCourt and Rule Changes

“ Members of the Judiciary and the legal profession have a responsibility to ensure actions are heard in the most efficient and cost effective environment. To that end the Court is implementing new Rules and procedures, and applying advanced technology to improve the administration of justice. The Court of Appeal’s new eCourt project will give lawyers and litigants the option to register and file documents electronically, to search and print documents from their office or home computers, and to pay court fees electronically 24 / 7 .”

The Honourable John Klebuc, Chief Justice of Saskatchewan

Burning the midnight oil? File documents, pay court fees, access court records and documents 24/7 from the Court of Appeal’s new eCourt system - anytime, anywhere! Join Chief Justice Klebuc, Justice Lane, Justice Jackson and Ms. Lian Schwann, Q.C. for a presentation on changes to Court procedure and the Civil and Criminal rules, as well as, an introduction to eCourt: the e-filing, case and document management electronic systems implemented to improve access to justice.

eCourt will automate many of the Court’s procedures and provide a presence to the public, counsel and litigants through the internet and public portal. eCourt has three separate but integrated functions: (1) e-Filing, (2) Case Management, and (3) Document Management. The ultimate goal of the e-Filing system is to enable all litigants to complete and file court documents electronically. The Case Management system will improve efficiency and general management of the Registry and court processes by making the best use of technology. The Document Management system will provide all approved subscribers who are parties to a file with access to the electronic case file.

Interested participants will be given the opportunity during the lunch hour (following the seminar) for one-on-one hands-on eCourt demonstration.
